Perrine Is Beamed and Knocked Out, but Goes Back Into the Game; Umpire Kane Receives a Fast One in the Adam's Apple, When Pitcher Bliss Fails to Connect; Tucson Best in Fielding and Support.

TUCSON, ARIZ., MAY 27.—Fine pitching by Ray Kallio was responsible for El Paso's second victory over the Old Pueblo Wednesday afternoon, by a score of 5 to 4. Spectacular work by Nig Perrine also featured. Tucson was unable to hit the ball at opportune times and Kallio pulled himself out of trouble on two or three occasions when it looked as though the local team was due for a slaughter.

In the second, fourth and eighth innings, only three batters faced the El Paso twirler, who deserves the ragged support given him, appeared to be at ease at all times. Jack Bliss, the El Paso catcher, was a good one, and Perrine in the fifth gave an exhibition which started the fans. Feltz fanned with two down and the bases full and dropped the third strike. Instead of touching the plate, snatched up the ball and threw it to first, hitting Feltz who was running it out squarely in the back of the neck, thus permitting Stroloff to come home from third.

Tucson's two runs in the sixth were due to one of the accident errors seen here in a long time. With two down, Horstman, who is weak with the stick, came to bat. He sent a tender grounder to Kallio who made a dewdrop throw to Mathes. Mathes stood up on the bag and caught the throw in his glove and dropped the ball and Horstman was safe. Stadell tripled, scoring Horstman. Stroloff doubled, bringing Stadell home.

Perrine Center of Attraction. Perrine was the center of attraction in two events. In the fourth, with one down, Callen sent him a liner which was almost across the second sack. Perrine ran it out and picked the ball with his meat hand. It looked like a two-bagger for fair and Feltz, who had made a single, was almost at the plate. Perrine made the catch, which amounted to a double, all by his lonesome. Perrine got the biggest hand of the day for his snappy work.

Perrine Is Beamed. In the seventh, Perrine came in for a little more publicity and sympathy. While at bat, a ball coming with all the speed that the Los Angeles twirler could lay on it caught him on the left side of the head, just behind the ear, with such velocity that it went into the Tucson team's dugout. Perrine collapsed and many of the fans thought their heads ached. They had thought from the sound that the ball had hit Perrine's hat, but when they saw him laid out flat they realized what had happened and many believed the El Paso player would be carried off the field.

Coffey Is One of the "Irish Fighters"

Erin Has Produced Many Good Battlers

BY JACK SKELLY.

JIM COFFEY, the young fighting Irishman from Roscommon, is one of the finest modern types of the fighting gladiators who have made the brave, gallant sons of "Ould" Erin famous the world over for their battling spirit; even long before the Roman Empire was established, or before other parts of Europe were half civilized. It is not my intention to drive away back into Ireland's ancient history and recall the great battles of the past, but to recall the fact that at least 2000 years before the Christian era, the Irishman would indeed be a long story in itself. I only wish to review a few of the courageous Irishmen who became famous on the British Isles over the years ago.

Credit is given to Jack Brannigan for having drawn up the first set of boxing rules in England in 1743. There began a new era in pugilism, which has improved and developed into the more humane Quersborough code with big gloves of the present day.

Donnelly, First Irish World's Champion. The glorious deeds of the gallant Dublin champion, Donnelly, in the prize ring have been sung for more than 100 years by his countrymen and others. He was the first of his kind. A man of tremendous hitting power and strength, he was respected by most everyone. Donnelly defeated George Cooper for the championship of Great Britain on the Curragh to Kildare when he was 25 years of age. After his victory over Cooper, Sir Daniel crossed over to England and lowered the colors of the great Tom Oliver and other Britishers in his masterly, aggressive style. He became just as popular in England as he was in Ireland. In fact, he received too much adulation altogether, and returned early from the ring to a very gay and festive life. He had a host of admirers and died at the age of 35 from too much jollification.

Jack Randall, "Prime Irish Lad." Brave Jack Randall was another native of the little green land. He was only a lightweight, but often fought and defeated opponents having as much as 150 pounds. Like Donnelly, he went to England and polished off "West Country Dick" Belasco the Jew, Jack Turner, Ben Burke and all other comers. Randall was certainly a most wonderful, scientific, gritty fighter.

Game Jack Langan. Jack Langan was born at Clondalton, county Kildare. After defeating all the topnotchers in Ireland, Langan went to England and endeavored to defeat Tim Spring, but after three long, furious battles, he retired from the arena. Spring was too big and heavy for the gamut little Irishman that ever took the scratch in a roped arena.

O'Baldwin, the Irish Giant. Ned O'Baldwin was a half inch taller than Jack Randall, but he stood 6 feet 1-3 inches, but was not so ponderous or so heavy in poise. For such a big, tall fellow Ned was very speedy and catlike in action. He was indeed a skilful and a true graceful boxer, having a wonderfully long reach.

O'Baldwin was only 19 years of age when he went to Birmingham, Eng.

field. The game was called and every one made an effort to revive the player who finally got upon his feet, looked around, grabbed his cap and started down the first base line.

Kane Is Also Injured. Bliss seemed to be having a bad day and dropped the ball as many times as he did it. In the second inning he allowed a swift one to go through his glove and hit Kane square in the Adam's apple. Kane was out of it for a few minutes but pulled up his chest protector so it fitted around his ears and went back to the game.

From a standpoint of fielding and support, Tucson played all around the visitors, whose victory is due to Kallio's excellent control in pinches and Perrine's snappy work on the second sack.

Tucson Makes Final Rally. In the sixth Tucson gave an imitation rally, which looked good for a while. Stroloff fanned, Raeder singled and MacMurdo took a walk; Feltz sent a hot one down first base line, but Mathes nabbed it. Then Callen sent a drive down the third base line which would have meant two runs and the game; the ball hit the white mark, looked good to Callen who swung at it, pounded the air and fanned. There was considerable kicking on this last decision, whether Callen's hit was fair or foul.

Summary. Sacrifice hit, Raeder; two base hits, Stadell, Thompson, Hayes, Stadell, Stroloff; three base hits, double play, Perrine (unassisted), Mathes to Perrine; struck out, by Kallio 5, by Horstman 4, by Callen 1, by Feltz 1, by Horstman 1; hit by pitched ball, Perrine; left on bases, El Paso 2, Tucson 1; first of game, 2:00; umpire, Kane.

rounds in 1862. Jim Mace and Coburn battled two very unsatisfactory battles with either fist. For such a big fellow he's getting very fast indeed, and if he does not fall by the wayside he may be crowned heavyweight champion of the world in due time.

Peter Maher. I hardly think a more unlucky fighter ever came from Erin than Peter Maher. In most of his important fights he was either robbed or framed up. They form too long a story to tell at present. But Maher banded it over to the ring has a great many victories to his credit.

He put the K. O. wall on such topnotchers as Frank P. Slavin, Joe Chynski, George Goofrey, Frank Craig, the "Coffee Cooler," Steve O'Donnell (twice), Nick Burley and a bunch of others. Probably if Maher had been properly trained and handled he might have landed the world's heavyweight crown, for Jim Corbett banded it over to him one evening in the ring after he had stopped O'Donnell, but Pete didn't want it that way. So he never claimed the honor.

Many Other Great Fighters. Jack Dempsey, the greatest bare knuckle or skin glove fighter of his weight the world has ever known, was born in county Kildare, but was reared in Brooklyn. He was the middleweight king of America for many years.

Jack McAuliffe, the only retired, undefeated lightweight champion, was born near Cork.

Tom Sharkey, once the heavyweight champion of the United States navy, was born in Dunkirk, Ireland, November 26, 1872. He was a very near champion of the world at one time.

Coffey's Great Chance. There is no fighter on the pugilistic map today who stands a better chance with Jess Willard than Jim Coffey. But I would advise him to go slow and learn all he possibly can before he tackles the gigantic champion.

Coffey has the real, old, Irish fighting spirit, for when Al Rich came him that fearful heavy smash in the beginning of the second round it dazed him for a moment, but like a true son of Erin he came back with a rush and beat Rich to the floor with a hurricane of fearful wallops that really took all the fight out of Rich.

Willard will not fight for a year; at least, by that time Coffey, at the rate he is improving, ought to be some class boxer, and he has a great chance under the able management of Billy Gibson and the superior instruction of Joe Jeannette and others to improve and become what he is.

Coffey is not yet 23 years of age and stands 6 feet 2 inches in height. He has a wonderful reach and a fearful kick with either fist. For such a big fellow he's getting very fast indeed, and if he does not fall by the wayside he may be crowned heavyweight champion of the world in due time.

ALBUQUERQUE IS WINNER BY 9 TO 6

Toner Has His Fine Chance at Bat With Bases Full and Bravely Fans Out.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 27.—Red Toner had a chance to win his own game Wednesday afternoon, when he went to bat with the bases full and two down. The pitcher took three healthy swings at curve balls and the side was retired. Albuquerque won, 3 to 2, in a game that was marked by heavy hitting.

Jordan, who was on the mound for the Dukes, was located for 12 hits, including two doubles, but kept them fairly well reined. Toner's worst inning was the third, when four hits and an error gave the visitors three runs. A pair, a double and a wild pitch gave the visitors two runs in the ninth.

Lay-to for a spell and swing on this:

You'll start an old-pal-party via a pipe or a makin's cigarette quick as a flash, as soon as you realize it's a live bet to let your good money rub up against some Prince Albert tobacco. Why, it's like beating back to the bushes for old-home week, P. A.'s so friendly, so chummy-like.

You see, Prince Albert can't bite your tongue, or any other man's; nor parch throats. Because it's made by a patented process that cuts out the bite and parch and lets you hear the song of the joyus jimmy pipe and the makin's cigarette all the day long!

PRINCE ALBERT

just hands you home-made questions like these:

Were you ever pipe-happy? Did you ever hit a brand that just pushed pleasure against your palate? The kind that sort of teased your smoke-appetite for some more fire-up, then another—and so on, right to the pillow-period!

Well, that's P. A., no matter how you hook it up—pipe or cigarette. It just jams-joy into your system! You nail that fact hot off the bat, because it's case-cards information! And handed out to you for personal and immediate attention as being about as real and true as you've heard since Hector was a pup!

P. A. is sold in the tippy red bag for the price of a jitney ride, 5c; tidy red tin, 10c; pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—the classy pound crystal-glass humidors with the sponge-moistener top that's not only a joy us thing to have at home and at the office, but it keeps P. A. in the highest state of perfection.
